

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A cage with storage space for a lubricant, particularly for roller bearings operating in a depressurized environment, including at least one storage space containing a lubricant between two chambers of rotating elements. The storage space includes at least one roughly radial or tangential outlet for the lubricant. The storage space advantageously includes an opening that opens towards an axis of the cage.

I:\atty\cdw\0557\205981US3\205981US.PA.revised.doc

10085110 " 030102